

AUSTRALIAN ANATOLIAN COMMUNITY SERVICES

WHAT WE DO

Australian Anatolian Community Service is a culturally safe place that aims to support families in the local community areas of Auburn, Berala, Lidcombe, Regents Park, Merrylands, Granville and Silverwater.

At AACCS, we liaise with the community to improve the quality of life of people who are culturally and linguistically diverse. We provide services to the community through two social work projects operated under Department of Communities and Justice.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT WORKER

I'm Aly,
-the community development worker at Australian Anatolian Community Services.

In this role, I am responsible for promoting and strengthening positive parenting skills through delivery of educational programs, building of social networks and providing a bridge to early intervention services.

My current duties align with TEI in focusing support towards:

- children 0-3 years of age
- young parents under 20 years of age
- vulnerable communities specifically newly arrived refugee and culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

FAMILY SUPPORT WORKER

I'm Ebru,
-an early intervention family support worker at Australian Anatolian Community Services.

My main duties are working with families and children with person centered approach, understand their needs, help find their strengths and overcome the issues in their life. My target groups are the families with single or both parents who have children between 0-12 years of age. Now I am also aligning with TEI, a new reform by DCJ.

My service to the community includes:

- Provide Water Bill Assistance (PAS)
- Referrals, advice and advocacy
- Provide Emergency Relief (food vouchers)
